“ Sometime around the late 80s, we were at my folks place in Hagerstown MD. We were arguing about something or other, as was Dans way. He managed to work the argument around to a planned point at which time he pulled magazine articles supporting his position. I don't know if he was planning this just for this trip, or if he just did this to people all the time. Brilliant. An absolute showstopper. I keep heaps of data on my cell phone to this day, just waiting to spring them on the unexpected.
